Dear Parents/Carers

Anti-Bullying Week 2023

This year Anti-Bullying Week will be celebrated over the course of the week beginning 13 November.

On Monday 13 November we will be joining in with the National Odd Socks Day to raise awareness of the Anti-bullying campaign and to celebrate diversity. We ask that on this day children come into school wearing odd socks. We can't wait to see their crazy colours and patterns! Please note odd socks should be worn with their school uniform or PE kit. This is to raise awareness and there is no donation needed.

The theme this year is 'Make a Noise' and during the week, we will be raising awareness and sharing a definition of bullying. In addition, we will be supporting children to think about who they can talk to if they are concerned about themselves or if someone else is being bullied. They will also think of ways that they can reach out to others who might need support.

Please look out for further information in our Snapshot of the week that week detailing what we have learnt and key messages.

Thank you for working with us to promote kindness at BFS.

If you have any further questions, please do get in contact with your child's class teacher.

Best wishes
